

For immediate release
February, 9 1996

CRYO AND PHILIPS MEDIA WILL BRING LOST EDEN TO CD-i

For many generations, the peaceful inhabitants of Eden have lived in form of the tyrant, Moorkus Rex. With his bloodlusting hordes of rampaging Tyrannosaurus, Moorkus Rex has mounted a terrible campaign of destruction against the human and dinosaur races. His ultimate goal is domination of the whole of Eden.

In the game, the player takes the role of Prince Adam of Mo, heir to the throne of the kingdom of Mashaar. He is ambitious and courageous and he is anxious to begin shaping the future. Shaping not only his own future, but that of the whole of Eden. And foremost in his mind is the need to defeat Moorkus Rex. His father, King George, is an old man with little fighting spirit left to face the Tyrann leader. His own vision of the future is bleak. Nothing can prevent Moorkus Rex's ultimate victory. In his view it will simply be a matter of time before the Tyrannosaurs conquer the whole of Eden.

This extraordinary adventure set in a time and place where man and dinosaur co-exist has been developed by the French software company Cryo. The game is filled with unmatched graphic animation and fully rendered three dimensional prehistoric characters and sceneries. The player has dozens of different dinosaur species to discover. The userfriendly intuitive interface makes it easy for the player enjoy this large adventure game.

#

For more information contact:
Philips Media, Stand #11.02 - 13.01
Marijke van Hooren
Jacky Wolfe
Juliette Borghuis
Tel. +31-40-2734866
Fax +31-40-2733512

